Mulvoy Joins Constellation Wealth Advisors

NEW YORK – March 1, 2010 – Constellation Wealth Advisors, an independent multi-family investment office, today announced that Harrison resident Mark “Duke” Mulvoy has joined the firm as an Advisor.

Duke joins Constellation from Merrill Lynch Global Wealth Management where he was a Financial Advisor. At Constellation, he will continue servicing the financial needs of wealthy families while expanding his advisory capacity to encompass best-in-class asset managers and investment strategies.

Paul Tramontano, co-CEO of Constellation Wealth Advisors, said: “Duke was a stand-out performer at Merrill and we’re excited to welcome him to the Constellation team. We pride ourselves on offering the flexibility and independent thinking needed to address the complex needs of our high net worth clientele and adding like-minded advisors such as Duke reinforces that commitment.”

With offices in New York and Menlo Park, California, Constellation Wealth is committed to long term relationships with client families to help them reach and maintain their life goals and to simplify the inevitable complexities that come with wealth.

Prior to joining Merrill Lynch, Duke spent nearly seven years in sales and marketing at Quebecor World, a leader in the commercial printing industry, where he was named 2007 Salesperson of the Year. He received a bachelor’s degree in communications from Boston College. An avid golfer and former marathon runner, Duke and his wife, Kristen, live in Harrison, New York, with their three children.
